

IAHA High School to Health Careers Program - Terms and Conditions -

About the Program

Indigenous Allied Health Australia (IAHA) aims to improve the lives of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people including future generations by building the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health workforce. IAHA promotes quality, culturally safe and responsive health services, by enabling Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people to access and pursue successful pathways to allied or other health careers. The IAHA High School to Health Careers Program is designed to achieve these goals.

These Terms and Conditions should be read in conjunction with information on the High School to Health Careers Program available at <https://iaha.com.au/iaha-northern-territory-high-school-to-health-careers-program/> and the IAHA Code of Conduct.

Code of Conduct

The IAHA Code of conduct provides the basis for developing a positive workplace culture, a culture which reflects our core values of Respect, Cultures, Inclusiveness, Accountability, Collaboration and Innovation. The IAHA Code of Conduct defines standards of ethical and professional conduct that are required of everyone working in, and with, IAHA in any capacity, the outcomes we are committed to and the behaviours which are unacceptable and will not be tolerated.

The intent of the Code is to provide a framework to promote ethical day-to-day conduct and decision making. It does not and cannot cover every situation that can arise in the workplace. The Code does not replace the need for common sense in how people involved in IAHA activities conduct themselves.

The IAHA Code of Conduct (available here) applies to all participants in the IAHA High School to Health Careers Program.
