Allied Health Career Pathways

It is well known that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health professionals play a vital role in addressing the health needs of our people. In order to close the gap in Indigenous health outcomes, we need more Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people to consider becoming allied health professionals.

IAHA supports students by providing access to a growing network of allied health professionals, information on scholarships to assist with education, and by giving students a national voice to help affect change within Indigenous health.

For information on allied health careers, including where to study, scholarship eligibility, and inspirational stories from real Indigenous allied health professionals visit the 'Allied Health Careers' section on our website: www.iaha.com.au
