essential information

DURATION

Volunteers commit to living and working in a remote community for one week. Prior to program delivery, development and training is undertaken, requiring additional commitment.

TRAINING

Volunteers undertake Induction training in Redfern, with further development pre-departure for Aboriginal communities in Alice Springs. NASCA facilitates cultural context training and provides a certificate on completion of the program for eligible participants.

LOCATION

Induction training is held in Redfern, NSW. The week-long program leaves from Alice Springs to one of eight remote communities in the central desert region.

COSTS

Airfares, accommodation and training are at no cost to volunteers. There is a $25 application fee paid to NASCA. You will also need to pay $5 for your NT WWCC Check directly to Safe NT.

FUNDRAISING COMMITMENT

NASCA provides support and training for volunteers to fundraise. Fundraising is a requirement for participation.

revealing the champion

NASCA is dedicated to enriching the lives of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander young people. We lead the way in program delivery for Indigenous youth. As an Aboriginal not-for-profit we hold the necessary expertise and connections to contribute to positive social change in our communities.

Partnering with eight remote Northern Territory Schools, NASCA's program is delivered by volunteers and staff for a week, three times per year in each community across four delivery points (March, June, August and October). In addition to in-class support the program delivers over 700 hours of sport, health, mentoring and personal development activities.

We use our unique abilities and our community engagement skills to connect young people with school and future ambitions. We aim to increase school attendance/retention, improve students' attitudes towards school, promote positive learning experiences and improve teamwork, communication and leadership skills.

volunteer role

Designed as a cultural exchange and immersion experience for volunteers, our program features a balance between your development in working in a remote Aboriginal community and utilising your expertise to deliver NASCA's program.

Working for a week with young people in the Northern Territory, volunteers:

- provide daily assistance in a remote classroom.
- assist in the delivery of targeted vocational learning workshops.
- participate in sport and physical education.
- work after school to deliver recreational and life skills activities.
- participate in cultural and community activities.

what we're looking for:

VOLUNTEERS

- Indigenous and non-Indigenous participants.
- Demonstrated interest in or knowledge of issues facing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander young people.
- Experience in sport, education and community development.
- Experience working with young people.
- Outstanding communication skills.
- People willing to get involved and fully participate in activities.
- Individuals passionate about and willing to fundraise for NASCA.
- Skills to contribute to some of the following program areas:
 - Promoting good diet
 - Exercise
 - Self-esteem
 - Connection to Land and Culture
 - Education
 - Vocational Education
 - Creative Arts
 - Sports
- Willingness to take the full week's leave from their position – there is no access to work time or facilities during the program.
- Over 21yrs on application.
- Team player.
- Excellent interpersonal and communication skills.
- Personal drive and positive 'can do' attitude.
- Individuals who model healthy life choices and success.

“VERY EYE OPENING EXPERIENCE WHICH ALLOWED ME TO BETTER MY UNDERSTANDING OF THE VARIOUS LANGUAGES AND CULTURES THAT WE HAVE THROUGHOUT AUSTRALIA.”

Goals
Opportunities

NASCA uses the power of structured sporting programs and cultural initiatives to harness the educational and health aspirations of Aboriginal & Torres Strait Islander young people.

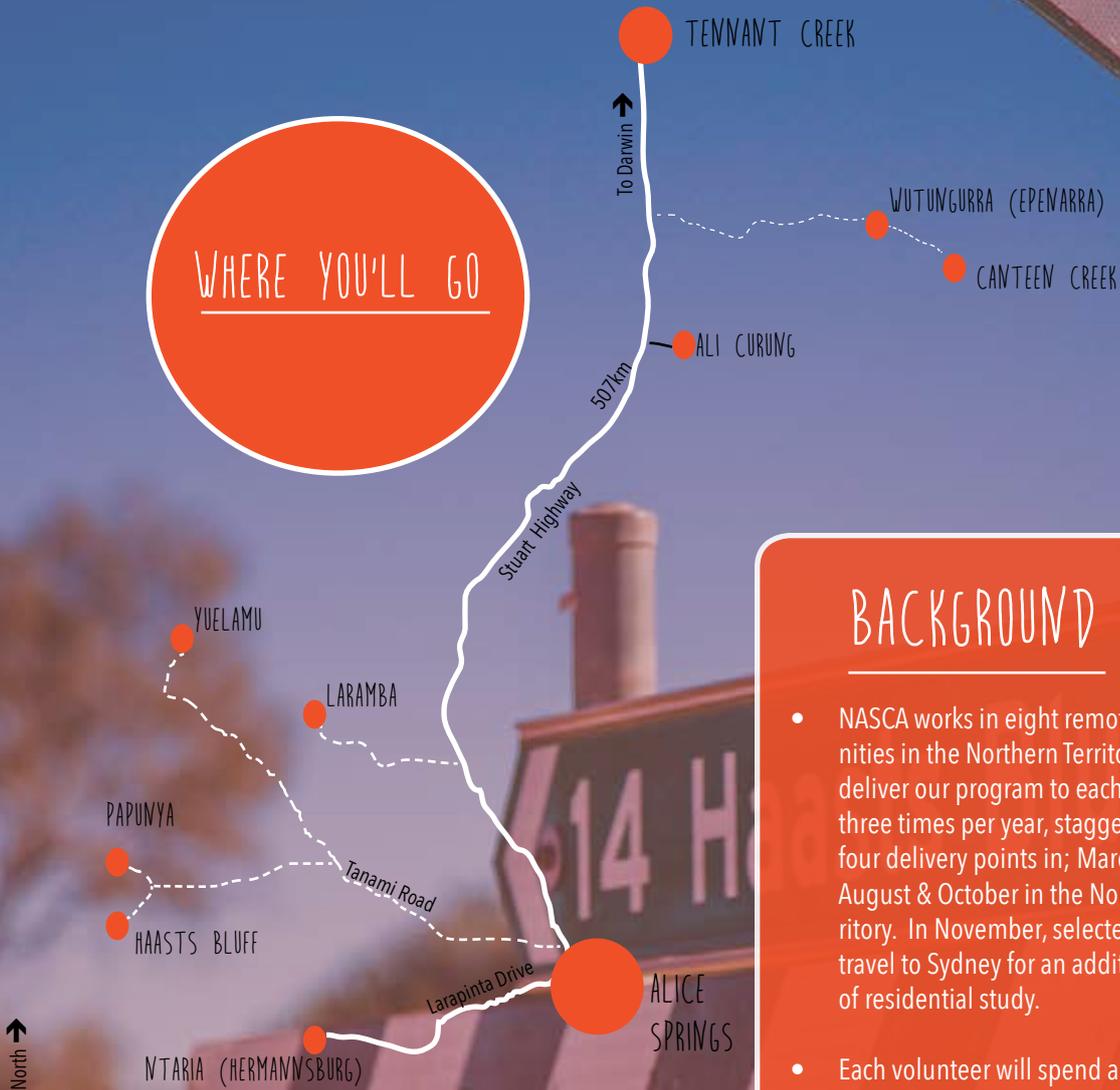

We address the root causes of inequality, and use our Aboriginal knowledge and expertise to ensure young people stay strong in their culture and identity and are resilient in combating the structural and systemic bias prevalent in Australia today.

NASCA strengthens:

- School attendance and performance
- Physical, mental and spiritual health; and
- Pride in Aboriginality

NASCA communities

WHERE YOU'LL GO

BACKGROUND

- NASCA works in eight remote communities in the Northern Territory. We deliver our program to each community three times per year, staggered across four delivery points in; March, June, August & October in the Northern Territory. In November, selected students travel to Sydney for an additional week of residential study.
- Each volunteer will spend an entire week in one community.
- NASCA has operated the NT program in some communities for over a decade. Since 2015 NASCA has grown delivery from four communities to eight.
- Each community is unique, however the amazing landscape is universally beautiful.
- NASCA works in partnership with remote schools to enhance the learning experiences and resourcing to improve the educational outcomes for our kids. We do so building on the inherent strength of the community.

frequently asked questions

Do I need to be an athlete or sporty person to participate?

No. We welcome volunteers from a range of backgrounds and abilities. A willingness to 'get in and have a go' is essential – so trying your best in sporting activities is important.

Is NASCA a sports body?

No. The 'sporting' in our name is about facilitating a 'sporting chance' at life. We use sports and health programs to promote engagement, but our focus is much broader; assisting Aboriginal people to reach their potential.

Can non-Indigenous people apply?

Yes. We welcome volunteers from all backgrounds.

Can I choose my travel arrangements and stay in the Northern Territory on completion of the program?

No. As a non-profit organisation our focus is on our program delivery and cost efficiency for travel and our staff time in making arrangements.

How much do I need to fundraise?

We provide support for you to reach a target of $1,000, however your participation is not reliant on the amount of money you raise. Every dollar helps NASCA to deliver our programs.

How old must I be?

We invite applicants over 21yrs to apply. We believe volunteers with life experience and greater distance in age from our beneficiaries is the winning combination. We especially encourage applicants over 40yrs to apply.

Can I choose the community I volunteer in?

No. NASCA determines the make up of teams with a balance of age, backgrounds and experience.

How much do I pay to participate?

You must pay the application fee of $25. You may need to cover the costs of your own travel to Induction training in Sydney. All other costs are covered by NASCA. It is compulsory for you to fundraise.

I can't make Induction Training, can I still participate?

No. It is essential that volunteers participate in all program activities.
