About IAHA

Indigenous Allied Health Australia Ltd. (IAHA) is a national not for profit, member based Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander allied health organisation. IAHA was established in 2009, from a network of committed allied health professionals and in 2013 registered as a company under the Corporations Act 2001.

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health professionals play a vital role in addressing the health and wellbeing of Australia's First Peoples. In order to close the gap in health outcomes, more Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people must be encouraged to consider, pursue and succeed in allied health careers.

IAHA's Vision

All Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, and future generations, are; healthy, strong, thriving and self-determined.

IAHA's Purpose

We will collectively transform the allied health sector, led by the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander workforce, to improve health and wellbeing outcomes.

As a national organisation IAHA:

- Provides support and advocacy on behalf of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander allied health professionals and students at the local, regional and national level.
- Builds strong leadership capacity across the allied health and Indigenous health sectors.
- Works closely with organisations, universities and other related sectors to improve health curricula, address allied health workforce issues, and promote allied health careers to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.
- Provides expert advice to governments, allied health professional bodies, educational institutions and the health sector in relation to health policy and issues.
- Develops and maintains strong networks and connections to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities to ensure IAHA core objectives are meeting their needs and aspirations.
- Works closely with the health sector and communities to improve access to allied health services.

You are invited to be a sponsor at the 2019 IAHA National Conference that will take place from 20 - 25 September 2019 at the Darwin Convention Centre, Darwin, Australia.

IAHA brings you the best platform for all things Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander allied health related in Australia. Over the past seven years, IAHA has held four National Conferences, six HealthFusion Team Challenges (HFTC), one International Indigenous Allied Health Forum, two National Forums and two Leadership Workshops, which have been attended by over 1,700 participants from across Australia and around the world. With the 2019 IAHA National Conference we expect that number to exceed 2,000.

The 2019 IAHA National Conference recognises the diversity of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, the diversity of our membership as well as interdisciplinary action within the allied health sector. We also recognise how sustained holistic, strengths based approaches to health and wellbeing can achieve health equality for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples.

National Conference delegates will experience:

- Professional development that will challenge them both personally and professionally
- Networking opportunities with likeminded people within a culturally diverse and safe space
- Opportunities for growth and learning
- A Gala celebration of Excellence in the Indigenous allied health sector
- Enriching cultural experiences

100%

of Sponsors surveyed agreed that the IAHA 2017 national events:

- Met their expectations
- Met their organisational objectives
- Provided opportunities to engage with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples
- Was beneficial to their organisation
- Provided good value for investment
- Provided good organisational exposure to a wide range of delegates

Who Will Attend?

IAHA National Conferences and events are leading professional development opportunities for all allied health professionals, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health professionals and health service providers. It is anticipated that the 2019 events will be attended by:

- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander allied health professionals and students across a broad range of health and wellbeing professions
- Non-Indigenous allied health professionals
- Other health professionals
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health organisations
- National and International academic and clinical staff teaching in allied health-related courses and programs
- Researchers interested in allied health professional education
- Policy makers
- Program managers
- Health service providers

Benefits of Sponsorship

The 2019 IAHA National Conference and events will be the gathering place for people, businesses and organisations from all areas of allied health and related fields. Attendees from around Australia and the world will converge on Darwin to partake in this important event on the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health calendar.

Participants are targeted via a strategic campaign which capitalises on IAHA's industry partnerships, both nationally and internationally, as well as a targeted communications campaign involving print and online advertising through Indigenous and health-related publications, websites, and social media. As part of a comprehensive and effective marketing plan, sponsorship can provide many positive results, benefits include:

- Exposure to a national and international audience within the allied health and Indigenous health spaces
- Recognition including acknowledgment and clear demonstration of your organisation's commitment and support
- Valuable exposure to your organisations services and/or products
- Opportunities to raise your company profile amongst a valuable target audience during this Conference
- Expand relationships and extend your networks with government, business and Indigenous health
- Learn first-hand about the emerging Indigenous allied health workforce
- Inclusion in the targeted marketing campaign
- Attract new client base and maintain existing customers

Sponsorship Opportunities

To support a productive exchange of individual, community and organisational perspectives, IAHA strives to maximise National Conference participation by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people and Non-Indigenous people from around Australia and internationally, as speakers, facilitators, delegates and performers. It is towards this end that a significant proportion of the financial sponsorship will be directed.

The National Conference will provide a unique opportunity for sponsors to communicate with and promote their organisation within the health sector. We rely on a small group of supporters at different levels. All supporting organisations will be promoted via a range of initiatives reflecting their level of support for this event.

To date, there is no other national event dedicated to promoting Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander allied health professions including their work in diverse locations, covering over 28 different professions and inter-professional approaches to working more effectively together to improve the health outcomes of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

The National Conference and events will be promoted through various sectors including academic, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health services, allied health and other health professional associations, governments, community organisations, and allied health stakeholders.

A range of sponsorship opportunities are listed on the following pages.

The 2019 IAHA National Conference and events provides many opportunities for sponsorship participation and is in no way limited. We would welcome the opportunity to discuss your marketing objectives and any further ideas you may have on individual sponsorship.
