SHARED DECISION MAKING ABOUT BOWEL CANCER SCREENING AND COLONOSCOPY WITH ABORIGINAL PEOPLE IN NSW

IAHA are supporting the The Agency for Clinical Innovation in conducting a research study Shared Decision Making about bowel cancer screening and colonoscopy with Aboriginal people in NSW.

We are seeking up to 10 Aboriginal community members who might be interested in taking part in yarning sessions during May to help adapt the 'Finding Your Way' resource to help improve access to colonoscopy services for Aboriginal peoples in New South Wales (NSW).

If you are over the age of 18 years and have connections with the following communities we would love to yarn with you; Kempsey, Port Macquarie, Broken Hill, Dareton, Wentworth.

You will be offered reimbursement for your time participating in the study. If you have any questions and/or would like to be involved, please contact Tara Lewis at tara@iaha.com.au
